Hello Ms. Fava,

We are all excited about the plans for Amazon to invest in Arlington! Welcome!

Arlington has been leaning forward on clean energy, climate action, and sustainability for years. We are pleased that leading firms like JBG Smith and Dominion Energy have been active partners in those planning and implementation efforts.

Much of our current focus is on high-efficiency buildings; renewable energy; and modernization of the grid including energy storage, electrification, distributed energy, and resilience. We would like to give you a brief overview of our programmatic goals, to identify ways we might partner together, and answer any questions you might have.

This introductory call would include the management team of the Arlington Initiative to Rethink Energy \(AIRE\) –

Demetra McBride, Bureau Chief of the Office of Sustainability & Environmental Management, Joan Kelsch, Green Buildings Program Manager, and Rich Dooley, Community Energy Coordinator

We have the following time slots available (all assuming 1 hr (max) blocks) –

Wednesday Mar 6 - 1:30 pm Eastern
Wednesday Mar 6 - 3:00 pm Eastern
Thursday Mar 7 - 2:00 pm Eastern
Thursday Mar 7 - 3:00 pm Eastern
Thursday Mar 7 - 4:00 pm Eastern

This discussion could identify some topics for a deeper dive when Mr. Oster comes to town.

We look forward to speaking with you and building a lasting relationship with your firm.

Thank you,
John

Andrea & Jake –

I would like to introduce you to John Morrill with Arlington County – he is the Energy Manager in the Office of Sustainability and Environmental Management and is interested in speaking with you about renewable energy, sustainability and green building programs.

John – Andrea is the Public Policy Director for Amazon and our main point of contact. Jake is Head of Energy Policy for Amazon. Andrea can be available for a call next week and then when Jake comes into town in late April you all can schedule a deeper dive meeting in person.

John – can you send some times that your team is available to Andrea for a call next week? And, I will step out of it and let you all coordinate.

Thanks!
Christina
